We make choices all the time about trivial matters about how to spend our money about how to spend our time about what to do with our lives. Choice theory reality therapy techniques But what kind of criteria are we applying when we say that a choice is rational? What guides our own choices especially in cases where we don't have complete information about the outcomes? What strategies should be applied in making decisions which affect a lot of people as in the case of government policy? This book explores what it means to be rational in all these contexts. Lgv multiple choice theory test book It introduces ideas from economics philosophy and other areas showing how the theory applies to decisions in everyday life and to particular situations such as gambling and the allocation of resources.
