

A Journey in Carniola, Italy, and France, in the Years 1817,1818; Containing Remarks Relating to Language, Geography, History, Antiquities, Natural History, Science, Painting, Sculpture, Architecture, Agriculture, the Mechanical Volume 1 By William Archibald Cadell shewed us a Greek manuscript of Stephanus de Urbibus a geographical work which has been published by the Benedictine antiquary Montfaucon; The following is a list of the first books printed in different places in Italy: In or before 1465 Donatus pro Puerulii a grammar for school-boys named from the ancient grammarian Donatus the first book printed in Italy and of which scarcely any copies exist. In that city the number of printers rapidly increased and the art was soon brought to great perfection there by the elder Aldus Manutius who lived 68 years from 1447 to 1515 and was succeeded by his son Paolo Manuzio celebrated for his Ciceronian Latin and his editions of Cicero. A Journey in Carniola Italy and France in the Years 18171818; Containing Remarks Relating to Language Geography History Antiquities Natural History Science Painting Sculpture Architecture Agriculture the Mechanical Volume 1

This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text: Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher, its invention in Germany and before it was practised in France. The first book printed in Italy was in 1465; and there is no mention of any work printed in Paris before 1470. Both were printed at the monastery of German Monks at Subiaco on the Teverone twenty miles above Tivoli and forty miles from Rome. It was printed in one of the mansions of the Massimi family: Venice is the next city in which printing was carried on. The first book printed at Venice was in 1469 Ciceronis Epistolae: Aldus the son of Paulus was a man of letters but not equal in eminence to his father and grandfather. The first book printed in Milan was in 1469 Miraculi della Gloriosa f. erzine Maria. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1820 edition. Excerpt: . 272 FIRST PRINTED BOOKS IN ITALY. In 1465 Laclantii Firmiani Divinarum Listilutionum Lib. VII. is the second book printed in Italy. Sweinheim and Pannartz were the printers. In 1467 AT. Tul. Ciceronis Epistolarum ad Familiares Lib. X VI. in domo Petri de Maximis. The first book printed in Rome. ad Famil. Paulo began to print in 1533. The first book printed at Perugia as above